

Roger Marsden

Roger John Marsden, my husband and my soul mate. I met him my last year of high school. We had detention together for what ever reason but I knew he was the one for me. Unfortunately we wouldn't get together for another 10 years. I married him, even though I knew he had a life threatening disease, poly cystic kidney disease. We married in 1984 and raised 3 wonderful children together. He made me laugh ever day, he gave me hugs and kisses every day, he made me feel like I was important every day. He survived a kidney transplant, which I was the donor. He loved life to the fullest but pancreatic cancer took his life June 11 2009. He always said he felt "robbed " after his diagnosis no more turkey hunts, no more deer hunts. He never went back to work after his diagnosis, he just wanted to sit on the couch and enjoy his children and he did.

I miss him each and every day. Love you forever.....Deirdre
